“We chose to include Obeya in our space because we understand that biophilic design goes beyond just adding plants. It means creating spaces where people feel safe. Obeya allows you to have your back up against a wall without blocking sunlight. It provides structure within our large open space that invites you in and offers a sense of security.”

“The space was very open and had high ceilings, so we really looked for furniture that could help us create a sense of scale and place. We chose Obeya for its ability to create individual spaces that felt comfortable and supported collaboration. The natural design of the piece also helped to soften the industrial feel of the space.”

“Summit Career College wanted to create a space where students could hang out with friends, do homework, eat lunch, and study. They really wanted to foster a space that could support a variety of needs. The building itself had large open ceilings so we were able to use Obeya to define the space without making it feel smaller. The client also felt that the design of Obeya itself elevated the design of the space and added another architectural element through the use of furniture.”
