Spaces for care

Cultivating spaces for care begins with creating a feeling of comfort, security, and confidence. To do this, we must support caregivers, patients, senior residents, and guests alike. For caregivers, we can foster environments of efficiency, minimize risks, and create spaces for restoration throughout the day. For others, we can foster confidence, peace, and inspiration that spur patients, residents, and guests forward.

Carolina, along with OFS' portfolio of products help create spaces for healing, for each person in the continuum of care.

Designing for what people need

Patients, guests, residents, and caregivers coexist and interact perpetually in caregiving spaces, and providing and receiving care takes each person through many different places. In order to create positive spaces for care, it is important for everyone along the way to have the smart, comfortable support they need for better experiences. After decades of thinking about human needs and creating furniture to support them, we've focused on meeting four fundamental human needs.

Connection brings us together.

Discovery inspires us to think differently.

Focus creates clarity for us.

Restoration helps us find balance.

Healthcare

Public spaces

Public spaces are often times the most utilized spaces in healthcare facilities and play a vital role in the overall patient experience. Furniture in healthcare public areas should connect users to the space around them and allow them to be present in the moment.

Caring about people isn't just a behavior or a belief—it's a calling.
Through the things we make, the interactions we are part of, and the values we represent, we have the opportunity to change lives.

Patient spaces

---

It's about creating spaces that positively support the relationships between patients and caregivers, helping them navigate the best possible path towards wellness and a better life. Well-designed patient spaces are empathetic and humanize the healthcare experience.

Caregiver spaces

Through observing how caregivers perform their daily tasks, we've built a portfolio of product solutions that span the entire system of care. These observations inform the design on how to keep caregivers as efficient and refreshed as possible in the delivery of care.

Senior Living

Common areas

Shared spaces play a special role in the health and wellbeing of the residents within a Senior Living community, as they are a vibrant and communal area of interaction. We gather where we feel most comfortable.

The furniture in these spaces should foster a sense of belonging, peace, and comfort to support Seniors and their community of sharing and activity.

Resident rooms

---

A resident's room, and the furniture within, should be tailored to not only the resident's health and safety, but also to the specific needs of unique individuals. A space that fosters comfort, peace and wellness for both residents and their guests.

Our design ethos

Creating great products and healthcare experiences begins with understanding and caring about people. We do this by focusing on three ideas in our design process. Simple. Purposeful. Personal.

Simple.

Creating a simple product is harder than a complex one. When you can find the root of what someone is looking for in a given setting, it clarifies the problem you're trying to solve and produces a simple, intuitive solution. In this way, simplicity helps us do more, by focusing on the details that really matter for people.

Purposeful.

We don't believe in designing products just to fill out a category or follow someone else's trend. Instead, our designs emerge from conversations and observations about the things people need from the places they occupy. Every piece we design offers a unique value.

Personal.

We put a personal touch in everything we do; design is no exception. It's one reason intentional craftsmanship is so important to our products. We believe the ergonomics and style of a product have the ability to support and inspire people in a personalized way.
