

CEU offering

Working WELL

OFS and the WELL Building Standard™

Third party certified through collaboration with Green Business Certification Inc.- the certification body for the LEED Green Building Rating System

Course description: The presentation outlines the criteria supporting WELL certification in which over 100 performance metrics, design strategies, and policies work harmoniously with LEED.

It's often a minor tweak, a slight adjustment, or just a more direct focus on a specific concept of WELL that can make a tremendous difference to employee health and wellbeing. Many of the recommended preventive strategies that respond to the WELL Building Standard's performance metrics are intuitive and offer significant health benefits.

Offering this deep dive reinforces the OFS commitment to sharing the most current and relevant education with our partners. It supports our continued investment in not just creating products that support more human-centered environments, but also educating on the innovative trends that support that commitment.

All of our partners are looking for ways to add additional value to their clients or employees, and for those that have not been exposed to how the preventive medical intentions within the program support improved health and wellbeing within the built environment, the presentation will be extremely insightful and further their ability to enhance their design solutions while communicating more effective operational behaviors.
