

© F S

Kintra

People gather. It's fundamental to how we experience life. A great table can serve as the common ground we need to connect with one another and find a sense of belonging. We designed Kintra to offer a central stage that sparks and supports sharing conversations, stories, and ideas between people. Community thrives when people have places where they can engage with one another, which is exactly what Kintra inspires.

