

© F S

Roo

Tapered, spun wood legs nestle into the cast aluminum hub which affords Roo tables the versatility and aesthetic range from minimal componentry. Roo derived from a design collaboration with Kansas State University students who identified a need for an occasional table collection to complement the growth of casual spaces in the workplace. Roo's varied heights and shapes along with choices in creating tonal or contrasting finishes present both bespoke and quiet design iterations.

