Staks slide-out storage

Designers Pam Light and John Duffy imagined places where furniture supported the way people work, rather than dictating it. Through conversations and sketches, they created STAKS—a design vocabulary of furniture that fosters a habitat that feels personal and natural, includes eclectic textures and patterns, and scales flexibly to individual needs. We've added storage elements to that vocabulary with thoughtful touches to better organize, display, power up and stow the things we need for a productive day of work and wellness.
